YOUR LONDON. YOUR VOTE

INTRODUCTION

On 1 May 2008 you have the opportunity to make your mark on your city and elect a Mayor of London and London Assembly.

This booklet contains information about the elections, including manifestos from candidates standing for Mayor of London and lists of all the candidates standing for a seat on the London Assembly.

You'll also find information about how to fill in your ballot papers and how the results are calculated.

The Mayoral candidates

There are 10 candidates standing for Mayor of London. All the candidates were invited to put their manifestos in this booklet in return for a £10,000 contribution towards the costs. Nine candidates chose to do so. You can find the manifestos on pages 4-21 of the booklet. I drew lots to decide the order they appear in.

Richard Barnbrook	p4-5	Sian Berry	p10-11	Alan Craig	p16-17
Lindsey German	p6-7	Brian Paddick	p12-13	Matt O'Connor	p18-19
Boris Johnson	p8-9	Gerard Batten	p14-15	Ken Livingstone	p20-21

Winston McKenzie is also standing for Mayor of London as an independent candidate but did not supply a manifesto for the booklet.

The Assembly candidates

All the candidates for the London Assembly are listed on pages 24-30 of the booklet.

For more information about the London elections, including how to vote, visit our website, www.londonelects.org.uk, or call the elections helpline on 0800 876 6444.

THE MAYOR OF LONDON

What does the Mayor of London do?

On 1 May 2008 you can vote for the person you want to be Mayor of London for the next four years. The wide-ranging powers of the Mayor mean that his or her decisions affect every Londoner.

The Mayor of London has particular responsibilities for: transport, planning and development, policing, fire and emergency planning, economic development and regeneration, housing, arts and culture, noise and air quality, tackling health inequalities, climate change and energy, waste and biodiversity.

How do I vote?

Your Mayoral ballot paper is pink. You can vote for a first choice and a second choice – the ballot paper has two columns for your votes.

Vote for your first choice candidate by marking one cross (X) in column one.

Vote for your second choice candidate by marking one cross (X) in column two.

If you only mark a first choice, your vote will be counted – even if you do not cast your second choice vote.

If you only mark a second choice and not a first choice, your vote will not be counted.

Do not mark more than one X in each column – your votes will not be counted if you do.

How is the Mayor elected?

If a candidate gets more than half of all the first choice votes, he or she is the winner and is elected Mayor of London.

If no candidate gets more than half the first choice votes, the two candidates with the most first choices go into a second round and all other candidates are eliminated. The eliminated candidates' ballot papers are reviewed and any second choice votes for the top two candidates are added to their scores.

The candidate with the highest number of combined first and second choice votes is the winner.

Dear Fellow Londoner

Remember London the way it used to be? Clean, friendly and safe. A capital city with a great sense of community - a good place to live and work. If you would like to see London like this again, then support the British National Party - the only party that wants to put real Londoners first.

As Mayor I will make sure that people like you - the real Londoners - are put first. Asylum seekers and illegal immigrants are engulfing London and are put before you when it comes to housing and hospital care, and are given millions of pounds in benefits. Enough is enough, I will make sure that the people who have paid into the system are housed before immigrants - it's only fair.

You and I know the cost of public transport is too high and as Mayor of London I will give all our pensioners 24 hour travel passes... free! Isn't it time we put our own people first - the people who made London the great city it once was? Please use your vote for change, a change for the better - to put our people first and to make London great again.

Putting London First

People Like You Voting BNP

HOUSEWIFE Lorraine Henry

"I'm terrified about my children's future. Knife and gun crime are out of control and paedophiles are released back into the community. Only the British National Party have policies which keep our children safe."

BUILDER Ken Seager

"I vote BNP because I'm proud of my country and our heritage. We should celebrate things like St. George's Day and other Christian festivals like St Patrick's Day instead of other festivals such as Ramadan and Eid."

STUDENT Samantha Winter

"I'm voting BNP because I'm Irish and the BNP are the only party that cares about the indigenous peoples of these islands. Our jobs are under threat from economic migrants and only the BNP will protect our interests."

Policies For You

- ☒ House British people first - it's only fair
- ☒ Stop immigration
- ☒ Build a better NHS
- ☒ Zero tolerance on crime and yobs
- ☒ British jobs for British workers
- ☒ Scrap the congestion charge
- ☒ Lower Council Taxes
- ☒ Better education for all our people

"Because it's not racist to oppose mass immigration and political correctness - it's commonsense!"

VOTE LINDSEY GERMAN

How can we afford to survive in London? That's the question many Londoners are asking themselves.

House prices are astronomical. Too many jobs have pay that's too low and hours that are too long. The transport system is expensive and overcrowded. The costs of everyday basics from food to bills are higher than ever.

Wealth

It shouldn't be this way. London is a wealthy city. It can afford decent jobs, houses, transport and public services. But we'll never get those if the property developers, private finance companies and the rich are allowed to use the capital as their playground.

Taxpayers gave £2 billion to the bankrupt Metronet corporation that was supposed to be modernising the tube. Everything from hospital services to London buses is being handed over to private firms. Big corporations are making money in the property bonanza.

There is no "trickle down" effect as the Tories and New Labour say. Instead the wealth is gushing up to the wealthiest in London.

Hope

Young Londoners are being deprived of hope and forced to start out their lives in debt while New Labour's main education policy is to hand over schools to business sponsorship. No wonder so many young people are left hanging around the streets, prey to crime and drugs.

Too many Londoners are without a voice that will challenge the way London is being run. I want to change that. I want a new movement of Londoners prepared to take a stand against the privateers and the politicians.

I stood against the Iraq War from the beginning, and have been central to resistance to the New Labour wars.

Now I am representing The Left List, and want to take the battle for the future of London's working majority against the wealthy minority into City Hall. I want to stop the transformation of our city into London PLC.

And, of course, I will continue to demand New Labour stop spending billions on the failed wars in Iraq and Afghanistan and start reinvesting it in our public services for the benefit of all of Britain's working people.

"London contains some of the richest people in the world, but most Londoners see little of the wealth.

London is rightly hailed as one of the most multicultural cities in the world, but there is little acknowledgement that many ethnic minorities suffer disproportionately from poverty. Londoners also pay the most expensive fares for one of the worst transport systems in the world."

10 STEPS TO A BETTER LONDON:

- 1. Housing – An emergency council house building programme.
- 2. Transport – Decent public transport to encourage less car use. Cut fares and increase provision with new tube and rail lines.
- 3. War – Bring the troops home from Iraq and Afghanistan, no attacks on civil liberties. Spend the money used for war on welfare.
- 4. Education – Good local schools for every child in every borough. No academies, no tuition fees for students.
- 5. Health – No to health rationing, stop hospital closures, no privatisation of doctors' surgeries.
- 6. Poverty – Tax the wealthy to close the gap between rich and poor. Pensions to be linked with earnings.
- 7. Environment – Stop big business putting profits before the planet. No to the third runway at Heathrow.
- 8. Olympics – Londoners should not have to subsidise the games. No cuts in arts or local sport provision to pay for the Olympics.
- 9. Work – The London living wage of £7.20 an hour must be enforced everywhere, alongside full trade union rights and a 35 hour working week.
- 10. Equality – Oppose all forms of discrimination and racism.

Lindsey German is one of the leading figures in the anti-war movement. She has been central to the mass demonstrations against the Iraq war.

She is a socialist and has a lifelong commitment to women's liberation and anti-racism. She believes London would be better with stronger trade unions.

She was a founder of Respect and in 2004 stood coming within 0.43% of a seat on the London Assembly.

She believes there is a strong need for a left voice in London who will stand up for the unions, speak out against racism and inequality, for proper council housing and for cheap and decent public transport.

A change for the better

The Challenge

London is a wonderful, cosmopolitan city with so much to offer. It is little wonder that so many come to live and work here each year. But for all of London's qualities, life for those who live here is getting harder. Londoners feel less safe on the streets as thuggish behaviour and violent crime increase. Our transport system is choking, so that people spend more of their precious day stuck on the way to work or home. It costs more and more to live here, and taxpayers no longer get value for money.

"I am serious about making London safer, protecting our green spaces and giving the taxpayer value for money – and I have the ideas to do it."

The Solution

London needs a new Mayor. I put myself forward for this job because I have the energy and fresh thinking to turn the tide on our problems with crime, transport, housing and the local environment.

My plan to change London for the better includes the following:

- ✓ Beef up the police presence on our streets by increasing police numbers and cutting red tape at the Metropolitan Police Service
- ✓ Implement serious strategies on knife and gun crime and arm the police with handheld weapon scanners
- ✓ Crack down on the culture of casual disorder that leads to more serious crime, with live CCTV on buses and a community service scheme for young people who abuse free travel
- ✓ Make transport safer by putting more uniformed officers on buses and station platforms
- ✓ Protect our green, open spaces and encourage more recycling across the boroughs
- ✓ Scrap the proposed £25 congestion charge and make the existing system fairer and more flexible
- ✓ Work in partnership with local councils to build the homes that people want and can afford
- ✓ Stretch the taxpayer pound to give Londoners more bang for their buck and axe the waste and overspending at City Hall.

I am serious about making London safer, protecting our green spaces and giving the taxpayer value for money – and I have the ideas to do it. Now I need your help to get to City Hall and make these things happen. Please come out to vote on May 1st – the future of London depends on it.

“London is the second most expensive city in the world, and while fortunes are made in the City, ordinary Londoners often struggle to pay for the basics - housing, energy and transport. Being Green is about believing in a fair share for everyone, so I am determined to cut the cost of living and create a fairer, greener London. My plans will also slash the capital’s carbon footprint showing that done in the right way, helping save the planet also saves Londoners’ hard earned money. Make this happen by voting Green on May 1ST.”

SIÂN BERRY, Mayor of London candidate for the Green Party.

ABOUT SIÂN

Siân is 33 and lives in Kentish Town. She studied engineering at Trinity College, Oxford, and is author of a series of books on greener living.

She is founder of the Alliance Against Urban 4x4s campaign, and recently celebrated persuading the GLA to abolish the congestion charge for the cleanest cars while charging gas-guzzlers more.

Siân is a school governor and a Patron of the Fair Pay Network, which works to abolish poverty wages.

CHANGE LONDON FOR GOOD. VOTE SIÂN BERRY. VOTE GREEN PARTY.

SIÂN’S PLANS FOR A GREENER, MORE AFFORDABLE LONDON.

- Free insulation for every home that needs it.
- Cut all bus and off-peak tube fares by 20p.
- Insist all employers pay a London Living Wage of at least £7.20 per hour.
- Change planning rules to ensure at least 60% of all new housing is affordable.
- Affordable premises for small shops and businesses in new commercial developments.
- Oppose all airport expansion in London and the South East.
- Rail and tube franchises back under public control.
- Cancel the £500 million Thames Gateway roadbuilding plans - put the money into public transport instead.
- Solar electricity and heating on 100,000 roofs in the city by 2015.
- A 20mph city-wide speed limit on all residential roads throughout London.
- Community policing through Safer Neighbourhood Teams round the clock not just at certain times of the day.

Brian Paddick

"If I can't cut crime and make our streets safer - I'll quit."

www.brianpaddick.org

London is my city. I've lived here all my life.

I spent over 30 years working to help improve lives in communities across the capital. I worked my way up from Police Constable on the beat to become one of London's most senior police officers.

Over that time, I've gained a unique insight into our city and the diverse communities that live here.

Everywhere I go, Londoners tell me how concerned they are about rising crime, especially knife crime. They also tell me that they are fed up paying record high fares on public transport for poor services.

People are saying that they want a change.

Our city needs a Mayor who is in touch with the everyday lives of millions of Londoners. A Mayor who will get things done for us.

As London's Mayor, I will take action to make our streets safer. I will do my best to improve our transport system and to protect our environment.

This is our city. With your support, I will deliver the change our city needs.

Best Wishes,

Brian Paddick

Liberal Democrat Candidate for Mayor of London

Serious solutions for London

action to cut crime

Every month we see more senseless loss of life on London's streets. Brian Paddick has thirty years experience fighting crime in London.

Brian's top priority is to get the knives and guns off our streets. "Nothing is more important than the safety of Londoners," says Brian. "We need to bring communities and police together to fight crime."

Brian is fighting to stop the closure of smaller police stations across the capital.

action to improve transport

Londoners are paying some of the highest transport fares in the world, often for poor services.

Brian will bring forward a costed plan to bring London's transport system into the 21st century.

Priorities include improving bus services, especially in those areas outside the tube network. New technology will be introduced to provide better information to passengers about services.

Brian will make our transport network safer for all.

action on housing and environment

As Mayor, Brian will work hard to provide more affordable homes for Londoners. He will launch a war on homelessness on our streets.

Brian is passionate about protecting London's precious environment for future generations of Londoners.

Brian is opposed to Heathrow expansion. "We need more trains and less planes," says Brian Paddick. "I want to make London into one of the greenest capitals in the world."

Matt O'Connor, English Democrats
London Mayoral Elections 2008

We all remember a country we called home. A green and pleasant land that gave the world the English language, Democracy, the Mother of Parliaments and the Magna Carta. But some people don't want us to remember - currently £100,000 is spent on a festival such as St Patrick's Day whereas St George's Day is mocked with a screening of 'The Life of Brian' in Trafalgar Square.

England has been abandoned by our ruling political classes, and so too, has her legacy. On May 1st you will have a choice who you elect as Mayor. A choice between a Mayor who belongs to a Scottish-run government, and the party of England. Between the politics of the past, and the politics of the future. I believe that at least one of the candidates standing for Mayor should be standing for you, not Scotland.

LONDON'S SUCCESS MUST BE FOR ALL

I am seeking re-election as Mayor to work for London's success to continue, to ensure every Londoner shares in that success, and to safeguard London's environment.

In the last eight years London has become one of the world's most successful cities with more jobs, thousands more police officers, big improvements in buses, good community relations, winning the Olympics and adopting successful environmental policies.

Over the next four years London needs to go further. It needs a competent Mayor with a proven record of commitment to our city – able to stand up for London, ready to tackle the still bigger challenges ahead.

That means:

Managing London's biggest transport investments for fifty years, continuing to improve bus services, renewing the Tube, bringing more rail services under London's control to raise standards, and building the new Crossrail line;

Continuing to reduce crime by six per cent each year, recruiting 1,000 more police and basing a permanent police team in every neighbourhood;

Building 50,000 new affordable homes over three years and maintaining the policy that at least half of new homes are affordable by ordinary Londoners;

Providing new opportunities for young people in education and training and providing new safe places to go outside school hours;

Using the Oyster Card to keep fares as low as possible, make the Freedom Pass operate 24 hours a day, provide bus free travel for under-18s and extend student travel discounts to Oyster pay-as-you-go;

Uniting London with good community relations, equality for every Londoner and maintaining the 50 per cent fall in racist attacks;

Improving the environment with a £25 charge on the worst gas guzzlers in the central London congestion charging zone and a zero charge for the least polluting cars.

Vote for London on 1 May – the stakes are high.

THE LONDON ASSEMBLY

What is the London Assembly?

The London Assembly has an essential role in London’s government. It holds the Mayor to account on his or her strategies, decisions and actions and scrutinises issues that are important to Londoners.

The London Assembly is made up of 25 Assembly Members. While 11 Assembly Members are elected to represent London as a whole, 14 Assembly Members represent constituencies. London Assembly constituencies are made up of two to four London boroughs.

See the map below to find out how London is split into its 14 constituencies.

Constituency Containing boroughs

City and East	Barking & Dagenham, Newham, Tower Hamlets and City of London
North East	Waltham Forest, Hackney and Islington
South West	Hounslow, Richmond upon Thames and Kingston upon Thames
West Central	Kensington & Chelsea, Westminster and Hammersmith & Fulham

How do I vote for the London Assembly?

In the election for the London Assembly, you have two votes:

- one for your local Constituency London Assembly Member
- one for the London-wide Assembly Member contest.

You will receive two ballot papers and can make one vote on each.

To vote in the London-wide Assembly Member contest you will get a peach-coloured ballot paper.

You have one vote.

Vote for the party or independent candidate that you would like to have a London-wide Assembly Member seat by marking one cross (X) in the box next to the party or candidate’s name.

Do not mark more than one X on each ballot paper – your votes will not be counted if you do.

How is the London Assembly elected?

In your constituency, the candidate who gets the most votes wins the Constituency Assembly Member seat.

The London-wide Assembly Member votes from all the constituencies are added together. Any party or independent candidate with less than 5% of the votes is eliminated. Then the seats are allocated to the remaining parties or independent candidates. The number of seats a party gets is proportional to its share of the total votes cast across London, taking into account any constituency Assembly Member seats already won.
